ABSTRACT SUBMISSION DEADLINE: 29 NOVEMBER 2015
The European Congress of Clinical Microbiology and Infectious Diseases is one of the largest, most comprehensive and most influential meetings in the fields of clinical microbiology, infectious diseases and infection control. The 26th ECCMID has moved to Amsterdam, one of the most multicultural city in the world, with residents from 180 different countries. We are looking forward to welcoming thousands of delegates and renowned experts from around the globe.

The congress makes use of the latest technology to present a top scientific programme with (e)Posters, oral sessions, symposia and keynote lectures. ECCMID offers an innovative platform where attendees can present and discuss the most recent research results and network with colleagues. In addition, a wide range of educational formats including workshops and meet-the-expert sessions give participants the opportunity to exchange ideas and learn how to apply the latest findings. Information about pharmaceutical products and medical devices at industry symposia and a large trade exhibition complement the programme.
